Snow Job

Snowpack in the mountains normally provides about a third of California’s water supply. Snowpack levels in the Sierra Nevada are now at the lowest level in recorded history—6 percent of the long-term average. This is disastrous for California’s Central Valley, the country’s most productive farming region. Last year farmers had to depend almost entirely on wells dug in the ground. Groundwater supplies are getting lower, and so much water has been taken out that the ground in the San Joaquin Valley sunk a half inch each month last summer. About 400,000 acres were left fallow last year due to the drought, a figure that could double this year. Governor Jerry Brown has mandated statewide water rationing, exempting agricultural business. The Christian Century

Wit & Wisdom

“Anti-intellectualism has been a constant thread winding its way through our political and cultural life, nurtured by the false notion that democracy means that ‘my ignorance is just as good as your knowledge:” The Week

Maple Alley Inn

Maple Alley Inn, an Opportunity Council program dedicated to serving free, home-cooked meals to anyone in need three days a week, is seeking volunteers who are willing and excited to help out with washing and drying dishes, preparing and serving food, and countless other kitchen duties. We ask for a one-year commitment, but encourage interested volunteers to “try us out” to be sure it is a good fit. If you believe everyone deserves to dine with dignity and have access to a delicious and nutritious meal and are ready to work hard to make this happen, please come to volunteer at Maple Alley!

We are looking for volunteers who are available Thursday mornings from 7:30 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. or Wednesday afternoon from 11:15 a.m. to about 2:30 p.m. (depending on when everything gets cleaned up!).

If interested, please contact Heather Manning at (360) 918-1208 or at heather_manning@oppco.org
